

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please reconsider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, support groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rulemaking in WC Docket No. 18-155.

Caleb Ramer

Signed,

Your Name:

Caleb Ramer

Date:

11-29-18

Phone #

W.C Docket number 18-155 regarding: Updating the intercarrier
Compensation Regime including conference calling services
The phone is our resource for news, weather, church services, funeral services, song services, we don't have radio, tv or receive daily newspapers

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please reconsider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference-calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, support groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rulemaking in WC Docket No. 18-155.

Lois Martin

11-26-18

We enjoy listening to news calls, church meetings, and singing conference calls - Please consider leaving the calls with free calls or service.

Levi Miller

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please reconsider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, support groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rulemaking in WC Docket No. 18-155.

LEVI MILLER

Phone No. [REDACTED]

Date Dec 1, 2018

Acting on WC Docket No. 18-155

Nov. 29 '18

please don't take away my free conference calling as we call in to church services and singing call news call and would really miss this. I'm a house wife and our children are all married and my husband works so I'm by myself a lot. I have no T.V. or computer or smartphone only land line phone. [REDACTED]

Martha Weaver Martha Weaver

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please reconsider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, support groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rulemaking in WC Docket No. 18-155.

WC Docket number 18-155

To Whom it may Concern!

I am sorry to hear that you are thinking of taking our free calling away from us. I am a widow and look forward to conference calling. I have long evening sitting alone. I would really miss it!

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please reconsider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, support groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rulemaking in WC Docket No. 18-155.

Lydia Nolt

Lydia Nolt

11-29-2018